Tree For Me Program

Toronto Parks and Trees Foundation is launching a new initiative called Tree For Me in partnership with the City of Toronto, with the goal of increasing Toronto's tree canopy cover. They are offering residents of Toronto a free local tree, grown from tree seeds that were collected in Toronto. True Toronto trees, proven to grow in our urban environment - what better way to renew our urban forest. Toronto Parks and Trees Foundation wants to match you with the right tree for your property. See the attached for information on how to participate in the program. You will need to register through Citytrees and answer some simple questions about your property (soil type and drainage).

Here is the link to sign-up: <http://www.torontoparksandtrees.ca/Programs/Programs/Tree-for-Me-1>

Once you follow the instructions on the link, you will be set up to receive a free native, locally sourced tree. This initiative is intended to engage the public with tree planting and tree care - this means that participants will have the opportunity to join in a tree planting and care demonstration prior to receiving their tree.

The tree will be available for pick-up at Riverdale East Park on either May 28th or 29th. Individuals will be able to choose their own time slot between 10am-3pm.
